Campaign Money Plan Kept Alive

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate turned back 49 to 46 a Republican move today to kill a Democratic-backed presidential campaign financing plan which could give major party nominees $20.4 million each in public funds next year.

The key test apparently indicated that the Democrats have the votes to write the plan into the $26-billion tax cut bill.

But Republicans indicated they might continue to fight the proposal by offering a series of amendments to it.

The move of Sen. Charles McC. Mathias, R-Md., to kill the plan was beaten with votes of 49 Democrats. It was supported by 43 Republicans and 3 Democrats.

The vote was preceded by a bitter shouting, partisan debate.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, a leading proponent of the plan introduced by Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., declared "some form of public financing of campaigns is absolutely necessary to put an end to the day of labor's man, industry's man and whoever's man.

"Unless something is done, there is no way to prevent our national politics from becoming the exclusive preserve of the rich or of those who serve one of the economic interests of this nation."

Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn., declared that the proposal "smells" and represents an attempt by the Democrats "to legislate their way back into office."

"This is an affront to democracy," he shouted. "In effect what the Democratic party is telling the people of this nation is that you will give. There is no consideration as to the quality of the candidates."

Pastore interrupted to say that the income tax checkoff procedure designed to raise the money was entirely voluntary and that no one had to contribute who did not want to.

The Senate Wednesday killed an attempt to add a big Social Security increase to the bill, and thus apparently buried the issue for the remainder of the debate.

The amendment, offered by Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., would have given all Social Security beneficiaries a 5-per-cent boost as well as providing many other special increases.

But Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., floor manager of the bill, contended these questions should be considered on the House-passed welfare bill which contains similar Social Security provisions. He indicated this bill would reach the Senate floor by next March 1.

Long predicted 52 of the 55 Democrats would support the campaign-fund rider, with only 50 votes needed for adoption. And, he said, as many as three Republicans might back it.

The plan is similar to one written into law in 1966 but which was nullified in 1967.

Money for the fund would be obtained through voluntary checkoffs by taxpayers on their income tax returns allocating $1 of their payment for the purpose.

There is a potential of raising $113 million this way in one year, sponsors say.

Each major-party candidate would be entitled to $20.4 million from the fund next year, based on a formula of 15 cents for each person in the United States 18 years old and over.

A third-party nominee would be given about $6.3 million.

A nominee could decide not to use the government funds and rely on private financing.

Power Lines Catch Fire

Corsicana firemen answered calls on four power line poles in rapid succession beginning at 6:34 p.m. but did not attempt to extinguish the blazing crossarms on poles carrying high voltage lines at the request of TP&L personnel, Main Station Commander W.G. Hanna said Thursday.

Commander Hanna said two poles were afire in the 700 block of N. 9th St. in the first called received at 6:34 p.m. A minute later, an alarm was received on a pole fire in the 1100 block of S. 5th St. and at 6:47 p.m. firemen were called out on another pole fire where S. 15th merges with S. 17th on the curve.

"The TP&L asked us not to put any water on the fires in the high voltage line poles as they said they didn't want us to get hurt," Hanna said. Trouble crews from the utility controlled the pole fires.

Firemen were told the fires ignited when accumulated dust on the power lines became a charged mist with the beginning of the rains.

Firemen checked out the First National Bank at 10:45 p.m. when rains "held down" smoke issuing from the bank's incinerator causing it to waft around the building giving the impression to passersby the building was on fire.

School Raters Not from TEA

Educators appearing in a photograph on the front page of The Daily Sun Tuesday above the caption "Roundtabling before Touring" were not representatives of the Texas Education Agency, as indicated. They were, instead, educators convened by the Educational Service Center at Waco for such inspection tours. They included Mrs. Mary Frances Glass, principal of Rosebud-Lott Primary School, Bob Coleman, director of instructional services at the Center, and Dr. L.C. McNamee, dean of the School of Education at Baylor University. They were organized for the tour by Mack Mullins, executive director of the Center and former assistant superintendent of schools in Corsicana.

Tropical Storm Laura Stationary

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The National Hurricane Center issued this bulletin on tropical storm Laura today:

Laura essentially stationary.

Reports from a Navy reconnaissance plane during the last several hours indicate that Laura is essentially stationary and was near Latitude 19.8 North and Longitude 85.0 West at 2 a.m. EST. This position is unchanged from our previous advisory and is about 130 miles east-southeast of Cozumel, Mexico, and the same distance south of the western tip of Cuba.

'Meewan' Benefit Show Scheduled

A benefit variety show has been scheduled for Dec. 3, in Drane Middle School auditorium to help defray expenses of the recent hospitalization and surgery of Navarro Junior College Student Meewan Pantasuporn, according to Bobby Fluker, who is putting the show together.

All profits from the show will go to the "Meewan Fund".

It will be a "true variety show", with a lot of acts of different kinds, as well as popular, western and sacred music, he said.

Admission will be $1.50 for adults and students and 50c for children under 12.

Advance tickets will be on sale later this week, and participating acts will be told as they are signed.

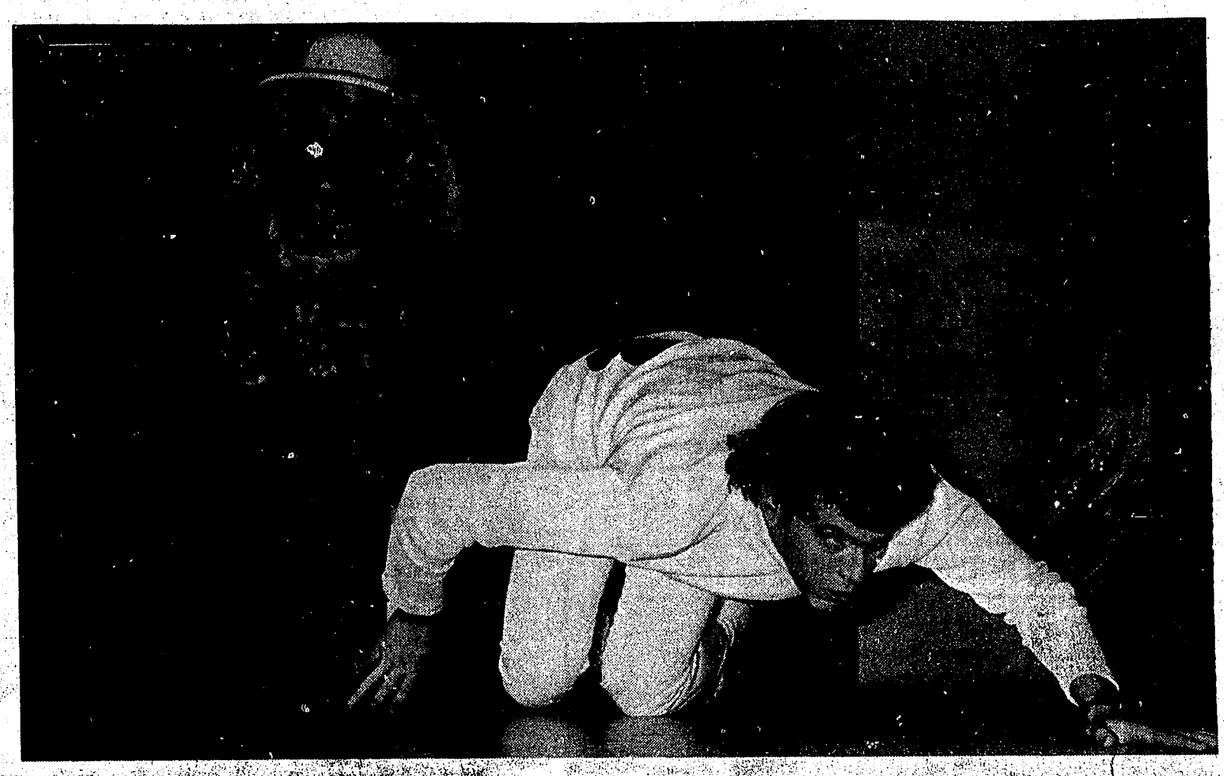

Volunteers for the show have been asked to call 874-6646.

December Oil Allowable Up

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Railroad Commission raised the statewide oil allowable today for December, breaking a string of seven consecutively monthly reductions in the allowable.

The December allowable was set at 63 per cent, or one-half of one per cent higher than this month.

The December allowable will permit maximum production of 3,339,400 barrels a day next month, compared with 3,318,059 barrels daily this month.

Chamber Elects New Slate

A new slate of Chamber of Commerce officers for 1972 was elected by directors at Thursday's board meeting headed by Ned Polk, this year's first vice-president who was elevated to succeed Herb Silverberg as president.

Don Bowen was promoted from second to first vice president and Charles Hooser was named new treasurer succeeding Zane Stites. Rex Carpenter was re-elected executive vice president and general manager.

President Silverberg welcomed seven new directors elected by the general membership in mail ballotting earlier in the month and announced they will be formally inducted at the December board meeting when retiring directors will be honored.

Welcomed as new directors were Jimmie Bailey, Dr. David Campbell, Victor Cooper Louis Hicks, Ned Polk, Miller Reid and the Rev. Dennis Smart.

Banquet Chairman Don Bowen announced this event has been set for Thursday, Jan. 20 in the Commons at Corsicana High School and the program will undergo a change in format, dropping the speaker, and using "music, flair and dramatizations we hope will motivate the crowd and get them to thinking more about our city."

Directors heard from Jaycee Gary Towers that some 40 entries already have been received for the annual Jaycee Christmas Parade which will begin at 7 p.m. on Monday, Nov. 29. It is expected this year's parade will have more floats than in past years and at this time, Towers said Jaycees anticipate there will be at least 60 units in the parade.

Brief reports were given the board on the Dec. 7 hay show at Navarro Mall with 45 entries already received, the 1972 Navarro County Youth Exposition that has been scheduled for April 13-15 next year, the contacts being maintained with five or six prospects by the industrial team, and city and college activities.

City Manager Bob Brockman reported city officials expect to determine in early December what items to include in an upcoming bond issue and details as the date it will be held.

Three Cases Postponed; One Fined for Assault

The County Court jury called for today was dismissed when County Judge Kenneth Douglas was called to Austin for a meeting on welfare measures.

Three cases scheduled for consideration today will be rescheduled, according to the County Judge's office.

In the only case heard yesterday, a jury of two men and four women reached a verdict of guilty in the case of Gary Youngblood charged with aggravated assault. The same jury ruled not guilty in an additional case against Youngblood for carrying a pistol.

Defense Attorney Julius Jacobs had entered a plea of "no lo contendere" (no contest) in the aggravated assault case and a plea of "not guilty" in the pistol possession case.

Prosecuting Attorney was Robert Dunn, assistant district attorney.

Youngblood was fined $100 plus court costs.

The jury deliberated about five minutes in the cases.

The case of Nancy Ann Biehler involving a speeding charge was postponed until Nov. 29.

The other three cases to be scheduled for trial at a later date are those of Alton R. Wells, charged with speeding; Charles Wheat, charged with harrassment over the telephone; and Robert Lee Mitchell, charged with aggravated assault.

Heavy Rains Hit Area

Thunderstorms dumped as much as four and a half inches of rain in parts of the Golden Circle during the night as a winter cold front pushed across the area.

Heaviest readings were from south of Corsicana along the Navarro-Limestone-Freestone county lines where Wortham reported 4.6 inches. Nearby Richland ended with one-tenth less, 4.5 inches.

Corsicana registered 3.62 inches for the same period.

Corsicana police reported high waters covered most downtown streets and many in the residential areas for several hours from heavy rains experienced Wednesday night, but no streets were completely blocked.

Nine cars were stalled at S. 7th St. and E. 7th Ave., a major highway intersection for some time during the height of the flooding before the downpours ran off into storm sewers and natural drainage, police said.

Chief Don Massey said he drove around and in many places "water was so high if you had opened your car door, water would have got in the car."

The eastern and southeastern portions of the Golden Circle reported similar amounts, Kerens with 4 inches, Fairfield with 3.25 inches and Trinidad with 3.5 inches.

Amounts were lighter to the west of Corsicana where Blooming Grove reported the lightest total for the 24-hour period, 1.9 inches. Hubbard had 2.5 inches while neighboring Dawson ended up with 2.4 inches.

Downpours at the height of Wednesday night's storm measured as much as two inches of rain per hour in some area. Flash flood warnings went out in parts of Dallas and Fort Worth, but the alerts expired without word of any serious damage.

A few snow flurries fluttered down around Dalhart in the upper Panhandle but skies were beginning to clear by early morning in that area. It was mostly cloudy elsewhere in the state.

Opinion Shows CSC Board Questionable

At least two members of the Civil Service Commission panel that deals with Corsicana Police and Fire Department personnel questions may not be in compliance with the Texas statutes governing appointments to such panels, according to Texas Attorney Genral's Opinion No. M-997 dated 15 Nov., and released today by the office of Navarro County Criminal District Attorney Jimmy Morris.

In a six-page letter to Morris over the signature of Texas Attorney Genral Crawford Martin, specific sections of the law are cited, and the final opinion is given in the questions of (1) whether the same person can serve on the Board of Equalization and the Civil Service Commission and (2) whether the same person can serve as assistant postmaster and on the Civil Service Commission.

Simply related, the Attorney Genral's opinion says they can serve in such capacities in both instances "provided the findings and other requirements of Section 2 of Article 6252-9a have been met."

That section specifies: "Before a nonelective state officer or employe may accept an offer to serve in other nonelective offices or positions of honor, trust, or profit, the officer or employe must obtain from the governing body, or if there is no governing body, the executive head of the agency, division, department, or institution with which he is associated or employed, a finding that the requirements of Section 1 of this Act have been fulfilled. The governing body or executive head shall make an official record of the finding and of the compensation to be received by the nonelective officer or employe from such additional nonelective office or position of honor, trust, or profit including specifically salary, bonus, per diem or other type of compensation."

Morris says to his knowledge no such finding was ever made with reference to the two members of the Civil Service Commission, and the specified record was never made.

The question of possible conflicts on the Civil Service Commission arose when Morris was representing Capt. David Garrett in a case following a move by Police Chief Don Massey to demote him.

The Commission ruled in Garrett's favor, but the Attorney General's opinion was sought for clarification.

Civil Service Commission Chairman Wayne Norris is also assistant postmaster, and Dr. L. E. McGary serves on both the Civil Service Commission and the Board of Equalization.

Q: I have heard that the city bought the property at the corner of W. 5th Ave. and N. 13th St. where the old house was torn down that set so close to the curb, and is going to widen 5th Ave., taking out that narrow jog. How soon is this going to be done? (Mrs. H.B.)

A: Your information is incorrect. The city did not buy the property, and is not negotiating at the present to obtain it or any part. The city approached the owner several years ago about acquiring some right-of-way for street widening purposes but could not reach a satisfactory agreement, and that is where it was left, city officials advise.

Hospital Board Meeting Today

Included in the hospital board meeting tonight will be annual medical staff reappointments, the annual budget review, equipment bid review and a discussion on laboratory services.

In addition, the board will review an agreement with the Navarro Community Foundation.

The meeting is set for 7 p.m. in the hospital conference room.

School Board Expels Four Students

By NELL FISCHER
Staff Writer

The expulsion of four students made up the bulk of the monthly school board meeting Monday night, with the meeting turning into a question-answer-inquiry session that lasted until midnight.

All four students had been suspended by their respective principals or the superintendent, Joe Seale, pending action of the board. Principals involved asked for suspensions in written statements to the board.

A Drane Middle school student was expelled for being disruptive, fighting and being uncontrollable by classroom teachers. Although he was not present, he was represented by his mother and representatives of the local welfare agency.

Also appearing before the board were H. C. Allen, principal, and Curtis Jones, assistant principal of Drane, who gave the board reasons for asking for the expulsion.

One of the three Corsicana High School students who was recommended for expulsion by CHS principals appeared with his father and younger brother. The youth was caught carrying a pistol in his pocket when boarding a school bus.

He told the board he did not know the pistol was in his pocket until he got on the bus because his younger brother had put it there and he had dressed in a hurry.

David Ingram, CHS principal, told the board the boy had been involved in other incidents and had been suspended for three days earlier in the year. The father denied knowledge of the earlier suspension.

At that point, Raymond Hampel took back an earlier motion to allow the boy's readmission to school and moved he be expelled because he had not told his parents of the earlier suspension. The motion passed.

Neither of the two other CHS students were present or were represented. Both were expelled for extensive lists of absenteeism, disrespect to teachers and administrators, and fighting.

When questioned by board member Albert Sanders about a incident that happened at a pep rally two weeks ago, Ingram replied that the matter was still being investigated.

In other business, the board authorized the employment of a parking lot attendant at CHS to police the area, primarily to keep traffic entering and exiting the lot through the correct gateways. Board members emphasized that this would include teachers as well as students.

Added duties would be to prevent the large amount of vandalism, allow only authorized personnel in the lot and keep it clean.

The board approved the use of three additional aides, which will be sponsored entirely by the Texas Council of Governments, provided that half are kept by the system on a permanent basis.

Bob Wollard, of Pattillo, Wilcox and Brown presented the annual audit report, which was approved. He noted that the cafeteria and student activity fee funds were not included in the report because they are not required by state law. But he did add that he had recommendations for reporting the receipts and disbursements of the funds. He was asked to make the recommendations in written statements for the board.

During the first round of the question and answer period, board members agreed that some revisions on the report had to be made for clarification's sake, not because there was inefficiency in the cafeteria staff.

Board member Maco Stewart began the second round by questioning assistant superintendent Lee Pennington about the library system, for the second meeting in a row.

Pennington reported that from reports he has received and observations he has made, the libraries are being used continuously.

In answer to another of Stewart's inquiries, Seale explained that CHS counselors and administrators were in the process of evaluating the computer system used at the school for files.

Seale noted that as far as grade reports were concerned, the system was efficient and time saving, but was not as far as collecting or changing data for personal student files was concerned.

Board member Albert Sanders questioned discipline policies of counselors and principals at the high school and commented that discipline should be as uniform as possible. He suggested that a black woman counselor would be beneficial to black girl students. No action was taken on the idea, but Seale said he would look into the matter.

Another item of inquiry was restroom facilities at Lee Elementary, which have been reported to be in bad condition.

Euin Frank, assistant superintendent of financial affairs, told the board that the main problem was ventilation because the windows were kept shut, but added that new fixtures and plumbing were needed to complete the job.

Frank also told the board that the painting on school campuses which began in the summer was continuing, with some work completed at Collins, Fannin and Lincoln.

In answer to another question, Frank told the board there were about 10 transfer students who had not paid their tuition fees. Both Stewart and Dr. John Harper agreed that grade reports should be held up until the fees are paid in full.

Permits Upped by $25,000

Corsicana's construction estimate for the year moved up slightly this week to $2,097,104 on the strength of three building permits issued at city hall agregating $25,648.

Permits included: James King, contractor, build brick veneer residence at 3605 Northpark Dr. at a cost of $9,248; McNabb Builders, contractor, build brick veneer residence at 1816 Dartmouth Lane at a cost of $16,000; and Troy Cooley, 300 W. 10th Ave., enclose carport at cost of $400.

New Books On Display

A display of new books used by elementary school students will be available for parents to see at Lee Elementary School beginning Monday.

The 300-plus books are an assortment, covering subjects, such as animals, mysteries, sports, poetry, space age, social studies, science, arts and crafts, activities and hobbies.

Teachers will be interested in an added section of professional books including administration, references, psychology, research, special education, health, medicine and drugs.

The display is in conjunction with American Book Week, which also begins Monday.

In observance of the week, both fourth grades, under Mrs. Eloise Sanders and Mrs. Tennie Chimney will present to play "Johnny Has Comicopia", in which classical American characters try to persuade a youth to read books instead of comics.

The play will be presented at the regular P-TA meeting Nov. 23 at 7 p.m.

Pickett Club Will Parade

The Pickett Riding Club held its monthly meeting at the arena Monday evening, with the president, Mel Sowers, presiding.

An invitation to ride in the Jaycees' Annual Christmas Parade on Monday, Nov. 29 at 7 p.m. was accepted.

Food, Fiber Abundance Discussed for Kiwanis

Texas Food and Fiber Abundance Week, Nov. 15, 21, was spotlighted for members of the Corsicana Kiwanis Club by Navarro County Agricultural Agent Gene Sears for members of the Corsicana Kiwanis Club at their weekly luncheon meeting held Monday noon in Martin Hall of First United Methodist Church.

"This Thanksgiving eat hearty and be thankful," Sears said, referring to the abundance produced in the state of Texas. He stated that the United States is the only nation to produce all of its own food and fiber.

The speaker mentioned the relative population and production of several of the major nations of the world, including China, 40 per cent of whose 800 million people are engaged in the production of food and fiber, and still the country must have imports to survive.

Seventy per cent of India's teeming populace are engaged in food and fiber productions, and it must import.

The USSR, with its 250 million people to feed and clothe, used only ten per cent of its land for agriculture. With 45 per cent of its people involved in producing food and fiber, Russia is unable to feed its population and must import both essentials.

The United States, fourth in population, has only five percent engaged in food and fiber production and it remains the only country with a surplus. Pakistan, which ranks fifth in population, has 80 per cent involved in food and fiber production. Of Indonesia's 115 million people, 80 per cent are engaged in production of food and fiber, while only 25 per cent of Japan's 100 million are so employed.

Ernest Featherston introduced the speaker. Richard Combs was welcomed as a new member, and Drane Middle School Good Citizens Ronald McKee and Linda Deeds were guests for the meeting.

David Helmer gave the invocation, and David Veasey led members in the pledge of allegiance to the flag.

Police recovered a stolen car here that had been reported stolen elsewhere and handled seven juveniles during the month.

The department investigated 68 car accidents in which nine persons were injured in seven of the months mishaps. Officers issued 47 court citations to drivers involved in the mishaps, with failure to yield the largest offense with 16 drivers given tickets.

Aunt Louise

Happy Birthday tomorrow to "Big John "John Wallace Stubbs, a long time employee of the Coca Cola Bottling Company. He will celebrate his 52nd birthday November 15th and today marks the 23rd year that yours truly has sent best wishes his way. Hoping for another 23? You bet!

Personal to all readers who write poems and would like to have them published and copyrighted: Write to Effie Shipley Monds, Editor and Publisher, Dp.P.L.F Publications, Box 866, Barry, Texas 75102. She can give you all the details. About four times a year she sends me a copy of her publication and it comes in mighty handy especially for Christmas and special ocassions. I have her permission to use her material as long as I give proper credit.

Dear Aunt Louise, "As you know I collect and sometimes sell antiques. Not long ago my niece, Rebecca Farrel, was playing on the gounds of the Mobile Pipe Line Company while she was visiting the H. A. Johnston family. Mr. Johnston has worked for Mobile for over 25 years. While playing she started looking for old bottles. She found quite a few plus an antique grey-marble one inch elephant. Mrs. Johnston's niece, Vivian Simmons, is a private secretary to Senator Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska. She was visiting here at the time and remarked that Senator Curtis collected antique elephants as a hobby. I decided to mail him the one that Rebecca had found. Several days later I received the following letter.

Dear Mrs. Borsellino:

How very kind and generous of you to send the antique tiny elephant to me by Mrs. Simmons, of my staff, when she returned from her vacation in Corsicana, Texas. She reported to me that the elephant was found by your niece on the grounds of the Mobile Oil Company.

As you no doubt know, I am a great collector of all kinds of elephants and this is the tiniest one now in my possession. I have it placed in front of an elephant clock on the shelf where my others are displayed so that everyone who visits my office will not fail to see it.

Again, my deepest appreciation and with my every good wish I am,

Carl T. Curtis USS
Washington, D. C.

Aunt Louise, I was so pleased to receive the above letter and thought it would be a human interest story for your column. Rebecca is quite a finder. Recently she was on a fishing and hunting trip with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Farrel of Dallas, near Fairfield. While they were fishing she went exploring and found the skelton of a fox head.

By the way, she is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Palmeri of Corsicana." signed Mrs. Don Borsellino, Corsicana.

Thank you for writing. Hang onto that letter from Senator Curtis. It might be a collector's item for young Rebecca someday.

"Hobson's Choice"

The original Hobson was a hostler in England. When riders came to his stable to rent horses, he insisted that they take the next horse in turn, never allowing a horse to be ridden out of rotation. So "Hobson's choice," in effect, meant no choice at all.

Lions Learn About Insurance Rates

How are auto insurance rates made in Texas?

Are they pulled out of a hat? Are they set by the insurance companies themselves?

What about 'no-fault' insurance?

These were just a few of the questions fielded by Dale Nuckols, representing the Southwest Insurance Information Service in Waco, at the Tuesday luncheon meeting of the Corsicana Lions Club.

Nuckols prefaced his speech by listing several factors that have led to the increasing costs of auto insurance rates. Among these were the increasing number of autos on the highways, the increasing rate of accidents, more and more high performance automobiles, crowded highways, inflation, costlier repair bills, increased hospital costs, thefts and high jury awards in personal injury suits.

Answering charges from some circles that insurance companies set the insurance rates, Nuckols said all the factors he listed are not under the control of insurance companies.

"All of us make the insurance rates, not the state insurance board or the insurance companies, but rather you and I," he said.

"In Texas we have, at the present, 40 rating areas. Rates are higher in some areas and lower in others. But in each area, the rates are based on the past records of the drivers in that particular area.

"Navarro County is in area 18, or a lower rating area than, say, Dallas County.

"No matter what area a person has an accident, his insurance rates are based on the area where his car is garaged."

In answering an inquiry about so-called 'no-fault' insurance, Nuckols pointed out that insurance rates would not necessarily be lower if Texas were to enact that type of plan. 'No-fault' is strictly personal injury coverage. People would still have to buy their own comprehensive which is the biggest cost in insurance, he said.

Nuckols suggested the individual could do something about the cost of insurance in his area by being fair in request for damages, by being a more careful driver and by urging others to do the same.

In other business, Lions were reminded of the Tiger Loyalty banquet set for Dec. 6.

Also, Lions were extended a personal invitation to "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown," a musical to be presented this week at Navarro Junior College. Extending the invitation were Janie Galloway and Bobby Grayson, two members of the cast, and Jack Butler of the Music Department at NJC.

W. B. "Buck" Buckhanan caught a five and one-half pound bass last week at Cedar Creek Lake. He said he hadn't caught a five pounder in so long that when he snagged him he became so jumpy that he was afraid that he was going to lose him. Luck was with him as that fish wound up in the frying pan!

Monday I visited Sparkman's Bait House to see if they had any reports of good catches. Big Bob said that fishing was fair to good at most area lakes. He said that several reported catching bass in the early morning at Lake Halbert, fishing off the pier, wading and boat fishing. He said that he and L.B. Sparkman were going to Cedar Creek today and he'd have a story for me later. We'll see!

Jim Acre Sr., Jim Acre Jr., Fred Eastman, Leo Palmer, Ted Denbow and Maurice Kirkpatrick have returned from a hunting trip to Sonora (that's in Southwest Texas). They bagged five deer, two turkeys and two wild boar. I asked Jim who killed the boar and he said, "Well, it was like this. Fred Eastland and I were walking along this creek and TWO WILD BOARS CAME CHARGING AT US. We aimed our trusty guns and got one each."

I believe him. He promised me a pork steak. Herb Silverberg was having coffee with Jim and was a witness. Come to think of it if I do get the pork steak and the venison that has been promised me I won't have any worries about Thanksgiving. A number of people told me they were going hunting and if they had any luck I'd be on the receiving list. Smile.

If you didn't have any luck don't forget that all might not be in vain. Go out to Pargas Inc. on South 15th Street and try to guess the weight of the hog they have out there. They are going to give him away Saturday November 20th. If you guess the closest to its weight you can win and have plenty of pork steaks.

Now is the time to enjoy Texas Products. It's Texas Food

Real Crisis in American Life Discussed for Blair Chapter

Mrs. C. M. Copeland brought the National Defense report to the James Blair Chapter DAR when the chapter held their regular meeting on the second Wed. of November, '71. Mrs. Copeland discussed the topic "The Real Crisis in American Life - A Disease of the Spirit" written by Mrs. Dorothy A. Faber, Editor of The Christian Challenge magazine.

Quoting directly from the article, the speaker stated: "Despots and tyrants of one kind or another have left their footprints in all of history since the time of Judas, and the Zealots were far from being the last of the revolutionary groups. One of the most dangerous of these appeared in Russia in the 19th Century. Called Nihilism (from the Latin word 'nihil,' meaning 'nothing'), it claimed to be seeking social and political freedom fro the individual through rejection of all forms of authority and traditional moral obligations.

The Nihilists were characterized by their total skepticism, coarseness of speech and behavior, a dedication to materialism, and agnostic and utilitarian approach to everything. A typical summation of the Nihilist creed is: 'What can be smashed must be smashed; whatever will stand the blow is sound, what flies into smithereens is rubbish; at any rate, hit out right and left, no harm will or can come of it.'

"Young men of the movement permitted their hair to grow long, and their female counterparts responded by cutting their hair quite short so that it became difficult to determine which sex was which. The University students were among the first to call for the abolition of religion, family life, private property and the government of the time.

"Rather than a centralized government, the Nihilists called for federation of communes and religion was to be supplanted with the exact sciences. The Nihilists - turned - Anarchists wished to give all men unbounded liberty to develop along whatever lines they please: 'The idler should be free to idle and live off other men's labor, the drunkard to drink himself into maudlin imbecility, the murderer to murder until he tires of the pastime, the thief to help himself to others property until he is satisfied. Exaggerated Individualism was the keynote of his system, Liberty, not equality was his goal.'

"Although it may be difficult for the average person to understand, there are those individuals in every generation who love violence for its own sake, who will burn, murder and destroy on any pretext or with no excuse at all. Such as these were the leaders of the Nihilist movement, their excuse being revolution.

"The revolutionary must let nothing stand between him and the work of destruction. For him exists only one reward - the success of the revolution. He has but one aim-implacable destruction.

"During the uproar that followed the tragedy at Kent State University (KSU) in 1970, it is possible that many Americans chose to overlook the fact that Kent State has been a target for campus militants for some two years, and that the first riot there was staged by a member of the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) in November 1968. Things got so bad at KSU that Ohio Governor James Rhodes described those responsible for the violence at the university as part of the 'strongest', most well-trained, militant revolutionary groups ever assembled in America.'

"Since the unfortunate death of four Kent State students, a number of newspaper columnists have commented on the fact that: Mark Rudd, organizer of the Columbia University uprising, has visited Kent State repeatedly over the past two years; it was at Kent State that New Leftist Jerry Rubin gave his now famous advice to the students to 'kill your parents ... and I mean that quite seriously, because until you're prepared to kill your parents you're not really prepared to change the Country, because our parents are our first oppressors. ... Quit being students, become criminals. We have to disrupt every institution and break every law."

"Columnist Victor Riesel was one of several newspaper writers who explored the fact that Kent State may have become the target of the New Left because it houses a unique laboratory where scientists have conducted elaborate experiments with liquid crystals which are so sensitive that in reaction to the slightest increase in heat, they change color vividly and immediately. Devices containing liquid crystals can detect the presence of enemy troops at night, can guide rockets to targets such as tanks and jets, and are useful in electronics and cancer research.

Mrs. Robert H. Dooley, Dallas, President, Texas Garden Clubs, Inc., explained "young (and not so young) homeowners who have never belonged to a garden club, could be organized into clubs with minimum requirements; bylaws to conflict with those of State and National organizations, and a goal to beautify and improve the environment by starting first in their own yard".

A new district, state and regional project is Youth Communication. Member clubs in District II will sponsor speech and poster contests with cash prizes, using the topic "Action Against Pollution". The five-minute speech contest is for grades ten through twelve, and the 14" x 22" color poster contest has three divisions; grades one through three; four through six; and seven through nine. Final judging will be at the District II Spring Meeting to be held in Gainesville March 29-30 for district entries.

Garden Clubs totaling 313 in District II will cooperate with the U.S. Forest Service to help prevent forest fires by offering a National Council of State Garden Clubs, Inc., sponsored Free-hand Smokey Bear Poster Coloring Contest with cash prizes for young environmentalists in age groups six through eight; nine through eleven; and twelve through fourteen. The posters, dimensions either 8-½" or 11" or 13" x 18-½" will be judged nationwide not later than March 15.

A district nominating committee for 1973-75 was elected. Elected were: Mrs. Russell Vernon, Denton, Chairman; Mrs. L. E. Vance, Fort Worth; Mrs. J.F.W. Hannay, Dallas; Mrs. W. D. Bozek, Ennis; Mrs. Truman Fuqua, Cleburne; and Mrs. J. Elmer Weaver, Cedar Hill, alternate.

Secretaries to Meet

The Corsicana Chapter of the National Secretaries Association will meet in regular session Thursday, Nov. 18, at 7 p.m. for a dinner meeting at Kinsloe House. Mrs. Gayle Crawford of the First Travel Agency will speak on "Tips for Travelers". A brief business session will follow the program.

'the Conqueror'

Alexander Hamilton Biography Reviewed for Blair Chapter, DAR

The regular monthly meeting of the James Blair Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution was held at Kinsloe House Wednesday. The Regent, Mrs. Charles Rankin, presided, and the Secretary Mrs. Maco Stewart was in place. Mrs. Robert Taylor gave the Invocation, followed by the pledge to the American Flag and the singing of the National Anthem with Mrs. W.M. Forester at the organ. The Regent discussed the NSDAR's news letter by the President General on a meaningful Thanksgiving Day. The National Defense Report was brought by Mrs. C.M. Copeland.

Mrs. Roland Bee, Registrar, announced two new Junior members of the Chapter, Miss Mary Jane Stewart and Miss Beth Robinsin, both of Corsicana; also, announced was the annual Junior Membership Coffee to be held on Tuesday, Nov. 30, from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the home of Mrs. Ned Polk, III. Members are urged to make reservations for as many guests as they wish by mail by Saturday, Nov. 27.

Miss Frances Broadstreet, program chairman, introduced the speaker for the day, Mrs. Van Hooks Stubbs, chapter member, who brought a masterful review of the book "The Conqueror", by Gertrude Atherton, a gripping story of the figures and period around the time of the American Revolution-a time of great patriots and great stress. The central figure of the story is the great American patriot, Alexander Hamilton, his lineage, associates and times.

Of all the men who aided in framing and setting up the government under the Constitution, the most brilliant was Alexander Hamilton. The youth, not yet 20 when war began, was one of Washington's most trusted aids in the Revolution. As a lawyer he ranked among the foremost of his time; in the critical period of 1783-89 he won recognition as one of the soundest political thinkers of the day. In setting up the new Federal Government he had the chief part in the transporting of the weak provisions of the Constitution into a strong, national government system.

George Washington appointed Hamilton as the first Secretary of the Treasury of the new United States, and it was in this office that Hamilton left his strongest impression on the American government. He effected the measures to restore the credit of the country, establish a National Bank, and enact a tariff to protect the infant industries. No American statesman ever had greater tasks than had Hamilton, and none was more successful in meeting them. It is not too much to call him the greatest constructive statesman in the United States History.

Hamilton's history was as unusual as the man himself. Born in the island of Nevis, in the British West Indies in 1757, he was the son of James Hamilton a well-born Scott who was more interested in his books than industry and commerce. Hamilton's gentle Huguenot mother, Rachel, was the daughter of John and Mary Faucett. Dr. Faucett came to the tropics as a boy and was provided with shelter and an education. He acquired the science of medicine, settled on the island of Nevis, became a British subject and acquired a fortune.

Mary Faucett, 20 years younger than her husband, brought money to her marriage and later inherited a legacy from Captain Kendall. High-spirited Mary was intelligent, something of a beauty, and in later years Dr. Faucett found her hard to control. Mary was busy for years rearing her family as Dr. Faucett wished, seeing the social life of Government House pass her by. Mary saw her two daughters make good marriages. One wed Peter Lytton of the isle of St. Croix, and sailed away. The other daughter married a Mitchell also of St. Croix, and sailed away.

Without the children Mary now wanted a social life which held no interest for the aging doctor who in his retirement proved to be an abominable companion. Into these unhappy conditions, Rachel, who was to be the mother of Alexander Hamilton, was born. When Rachel was four, after 28 years of marriage, Mary separated from the doctor, and, taking Rachel and her property, sailed for St Christopher. At his death Dr. Faucett left Rachel the Great House in Charlestown, Nevis island. Mary returned to this home, and Rachel's childhood was spent in this picturesque place.

Urged on by her mother, Mary, who was in very poor health, Rachel made a tragic marriage at age 16 which resulted in a breakdown for Rachel. Two years later Rachel had regained her health. While out on the bridle path she was introduced to James Hamilton, by his cousin and Rachel's friend, Dr. Hamilton. A great attachment and love sprang up for Rachel and James that neither seemed capable of stopping.

After her mother's death, James took Rachel to Nevis and they took possession of Rachel's house where the gates were always locked and the gay life of Nevis passed by unheeded. Alexander was born here in 1757- a very restless youngster whose only outlets were his mother and his books. The father, James Hamilton, preferred his library to commerce and suffered one financial failure after another, resulting in financial collapse. James was offered a job by Peter Lytton on St. Croix managing Lytton's cattle estate, and soon set sail. The situation was galling to Rachel's proud spirit. Things were improved for Alexander and his brother, however. Alexander made the acquaintance of Dr. Hugh Knox, a minister, who recognized that Alexander was something more than brilliant, Dr. Knox had a classical library and urged Alexander to use it.

James Hamilton was not a success with the cattle work, so departed for St. Vincent never to return. He left his wife and two sons on her people. Rachel and the boys moved to the Peter Lytton home where the boys became friends with boys on neighboring estates. Here Alexander met Ned Stephens, who became a life long friend. They all studied with Hugh Knox.

Rachel lived for the time when her son's genius would lift him so high among the immortals that his birth would matter as little as her hours of agony. Rachel at 32 was still beautiful before her collapse. Alexander spent much time with her in her final days and came to realize he would fight the battle of life unaided. "You are to be a great man, a successful one" she told him.

After his mother's death Alexander lived with Mrs. Mitchell and continued to study with Hugh Knox. When Ned Stephens sailed for New York to attend King's College, Alexander decided "I must go to college." After much hard work, a report he wrote for a newspaper regarding the great storm on St. Croix; his ability to write was proved and resulted in friends and relatives making it possible for him to sail for New York, where he found his friend Ned Stephens, attended grammar school for a time, and entered King's College.

Hamilton soon realized that the colonists were struggling for a principle, was filled with indignation, and became leader of the patriotic students.

Alexander Hamilton was struck down at age 47 in a duel of the day with Aaron Burr. This great public calamity ended the life of the patriot who is remembered best for his incomparable integrity.

Detective Ted Warren investigated the coin machine burglary. No signs of forced entry was found, leading Lorimer to believe someone concealed himself in the station Sunday before he closed. City Endorses New Speed Limits Near CHS

By BETTY JEAN CLAY
Staff Writer

City Engineer Bob Scott's recommendations for establishing new speed zones both inside the city and outside around Corsicana High School along with new graduated speed limits on S. Hwys 75 and S. 287 were endorsed Tuesday by the Corsicana City Commission.

The endorsement authorizes the city to submit them as recommendations to the Dallas district highway engineer for approval under the highway maintenance agreement between Corsicana and the state, along with Corsicana's request that the state approve companion speed limits as outlined outside Corsicana around the high school.

With acceptance and approval by the highway department, the next step would be for Corsicana to draft and adopt ordinances officially establishing the speed zones.

The city proposes to change the existing 30 mph limit on Hwy 22 from Farm Road 744 (city limits line paralleling the high school) to 40 mph eastward to the hospital entrance road and retaining the 30 mph limit there on W. 2nd Ave. The city also proposes to establish a 45 mph on 45th St. from W. Hwy 31 northward to the city limits, and is requesting the state to establish a 45 mile zone for Farm Road 2555 S. (extension of N. 45th St.) from the city limits to its juncture with W. Hwy 22. At the same time, the city is requesting the state set a 45 mile zone along Farm Road 744 from its intersection with Farm Road 2555 eastward to Hwy 22, this being on the north side of the high school.

Corsicana further is requesting the state to reduce the existing highway speed of 70 miles per hour for 2,400 feet west of the city limits on Hwy 22, graduating the first 1,200 feet to a 50 mile zone, and the next 1,200 feet further west to a 60 mph zone.

For S. Hwy 75, Corsicana proposes establishing a 40 mile zone from the Y intersection with Hwy. 287 for 1,800 feet, then graduating speed to 50 for the next 1,800 feet south, and from that point fixing a 60 mile limit on out to the juncture with IH 45 bypass south.

For S. Hwy 287, from the Y, the city proposes creating a 40 mile zone to IH 45 by-pass, then a 55 mile zone for 1,200 feet south of the by-pass. Part of this proposed 55 mph zone would be inside the city limits, but most of it would be outside, south of the corporate line.

Mrs. Sandra Billingsley appeared in behalf of the League of Women Voters to urge the city "to vigorously support implementation" of several items which the League advocates be accorded priority on carrying out Corsicana's Comprehensive Plan.

Mrs. Billingsly advised the League had supported the concept of the Comprehensive Plan from inception and had conducted a study seeking to determine for itself which projects and programs within the plan should be accorded priorities. This study determined and the Voters League so voted in October to urge the city to give priority consideration to upgrading housing by enforcement of existing laws dealing with removal of blighted housing, the proposed Civic Center with new city hall and police station, and park improvements including upgrading existing facilities and acquiring and developing additional recreational and park areas.

Mayor Youngblood observed the city has under study the calling of a bond election, and asked Mrs. Billingsly if the Voters League, from what she had said, was asking the city to include a new city hall in the bond election. Mrs. Billingsly said the League was uring the city to support these specific programs on a priority basis as Corsicana moves toward implementation of the overall master plan but it would be up to city officials to make a determination as to when to submit this as a bond issue.

"The main thing is," Mrs. Billingsly said, "we want you to know of the League of Women Voters support for the Comprehensive Plan."

Billy Elias appeared as a representative from the black community and the East Side announcing he had two problem areas he wanted to take up.

First, Elias said he sought information about the status of the petitions required to initiate paving and when East Siders could expect action on paving for which some petitions had been on file a long time.

As his second problem, he advised that although Corsicana had hiked the garbage fee back in the summer "we still have a trash and brush problem as trash and brush is not picked up sometimes for even a month." Elias said a lot of East Side residents don't call in to complain when their refuse isn't picked up with regularity "because some don't feel it will help." Elias said his people couldn't understand how city crews could pick up brush at one or two places and pass by ignoring others.

Elias said people in the "target areas" had talked before to city officials about blighted houses that continue to exist and the need to get these sub-standard units either razed or rehabilitated and had complained of a junk yard on E. 5th Ave. from which blowing trash added to blight of the neighborhood and their desire to see something done.

"We would like for the junk yard to be moved or to have a fence put around it," Elias said.

He continued that because of the increased traffic E. 6th Ave. now carries they would like for it to be developed as a "thoroughfare street" and would like for the city to give consideration in developing the master plan for opening up a new entry street into the Southpark Gardens Apartment and new access for the southeast section for emergency vehicles now blocked at times by trains.

Mayor Youngblood called for taking up the complaints enumerated by Elias one by one.

As to the paving, she suggested he check with the City Engineer on which petitions on file contained less than the required 75 per cent ownership representation.

City Manager Brockman reported the city engineer now is working up a list of petitions on file which will show how many have the 75 per cent down to 51 per cent. About two years ago the city amended its policy that once the maximum requirements for paving programs were met, they would consider on a "next priority" basis those graduated percentagewise downward, and of course, contingent upon availability of monies in the revolving street paving program.

This brought on a general discussion of the paving program by the Commission affording background on it to new Commissioners Bob Scott and John Carlock and resulted in a request by Commissioner H. R. Stroube Jr. that a report be prepared bringing the Commission up to date on how many blocks of paving had been built, who is delinquent in repaying the city, what balance is in the paving bond fund, and what in the way of new paving is being requested in petitions on file.

City officials explained that new garbage collection equipment hasn't been purchased or that which has been ordered hasn't been delivered that will enable Corsicana to improve service. City Manager Brockman said if people will call in whenever their brush and trash is bypassed trucks will be sent out, but calls need to be made to city hall so they will know about these things.

"It has happened in my neighborhood, too," Commissioner Scott said of brush not being picked up. Commissioner Carlock injected that Corsicana has a policy requiring that limbs be cut in four foot lengths before it will be picked up and this may be part of the problem being encountered.

Turning to the E. 5th Ave. junk yard, City Building Official Delma Ware said he had sent notices out to all junk yards on which he had received complaints notifying them of city requirements they erect 8-feet high fences to screen off premises and keep refuse from blowing away.

Ware said his office had exhausted every means open to him seeking compliance short of legal action, filing suits in court.

Asked what remedy is open to Corsicana by court action, City Attorney Don Pevehouse said they could cite people to court for failure to comply with city ordinances or could go into district court seeking injunctions restraining operations of nuisances.

"We have got ordinances on the books, we ought to enforce them or do away with them," Mayor Youngblood said. "Is it the general consensus of the Commission we want Don (City Attorney Pevehouse) to enforce these ordinances?" she asked. "Yes," responded Commissioner Stroube, to which Commissioner Scott replied "I would say as long as they are on the books, let's enforce them."

The mayor advised Elias they would look further into the other matters he listed in the future.

Following public hearings at which no opposition was registered, the Commission approved ordinances for two zoning changes. One would grant G. B. Lassiter a specific use permit to locate a mobile home at the rear of 702 W. 2nd Ave. The other changes classification of three lots owned by Robert M. Scott II at E. 8th Ave., and S. 2nd St., from Residential 4 to Office district, and grants him a specific use permit to construct a new mortuary. It would be directly behind his Scott's Funeral Home on E. 7th Ave. which he will tear down when the new structure is built, converting the site into a parking lot.

In response to previous requests from Commissioner Stroube, City Engineer Scott presented an estimate it would cost the city $8,000 if it were to pave S. Commerce St. from E. 6th Ave. over to E. 7th Ave., provided the city could get easements across the railroad owned property. Scott said if the street were extended over the tracks creating a new crossing, rather than paralleling the tracks to tie back in near 7th, he estimated cost of installing gates and flasher signals at $40,000.

Engineer Scott said he recommended paralleling the tracks rather than crossing the tracks if the city proceeds to push for this as definite project, and Commissioner Stroube, its chief advocate, agreed.

Commissioner Bob Scott, in response to an inquiry from Mayor Youngblood, said to his knowledge there had been no request to him or Commissioner P. D. Fullwood, other member of a committee appointed by the mayor, from a mobile home dealer asking the city to rezone any specific part of South Corsicana for mobile homes.

Building Official Ware reported that he personally and with the City Planning and Zoning Commission had explored with some mobile home dealers the possibility of dealers jointly creating mobile home parks but had received little or no support from the dealers and had more or less been dropped. He added that by authorization of the Planning and Zoning Board he had contacted eight other cities of comparable size on how they regulate mobile homes and said all those polled have regulations almost identical to Corsicana.

Mayor Youngblood said she had understood several mobile home dealers were to have appeared at the meeting to discuss zoning regulations affecting mobile homes and that prompted her to seek a report from Commissioner Scott.

Moments after the adjournment of the meeting, two mobile home dealers arrived, but were told they were "too late" until a future meeting.

Armstrongs Selected as Farm Family of 1971 by Rotarians

Mr. and Mrs. Stokes Armstrong, dairy farmers of Emhouse, were honored Wednesday when they were named "Outstanding Farm Family of the Year" by the Corsicana Rotary Club. The presentation of this signal honor was made by County Agent Gene Sears as Rotary joined in this week's observance of Texas Food and Fiber Abundance Week with Murray Cox, WFAA agriculture specialist, as guest speaker.

This was the seventh consecutive year Rotary Club has honored an outstanding farm family and all previous winners were special guests: Mr. and Mrs. D.R. Vest, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Lowe, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Hooser, Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Nicholson, Mr. and Mrs. B.B. Bennett and Lowell Reed.

Traditionally, the head of the family is presented a handsome plaque from the club and his wife is given a dressed turkey on a silver tray.

Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong operate a 560 acre dairy farm with 200 registered Jersey cows at Emhouse in partnership with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Armstrong and three grandchildren who do their share.

"They do an outstanding job in producing milk in our county and are representative of many outstanding farmers in our county," said Sears in revealing this year's recipient of the honors recognition.

Traditionally this award has been made when Rotary observes Farm-City Week which was tied this year to the new statewide observance of Food and Fiber Abundance Week.

As a member of the statewide committee directing the observance, Cox told the luncheon gathering the "The farmer has done a good job and he wants people to knwo about it." The idea behind oberving Food and Fiber Abundace Week is to "let you folks in the city know what the farmers are doing." The idea originated, Cox revealed, with a Lamar County farmer three years ago who realized that city dwellers didn't know and therefore didn't appreciate the role of the farmerr who produced no only food and fiber to sustain himself but 46 others.

Pointing out that the number engaged in farming has dwindled severelly, Cox said the farmers are doing a good job because they are smarter and more efficient, and more often than the average person realizes they have more invested than a businessman in town has.

"Agriculture in Texas is important and we in the state like to brag," Cox observed as he revealed there is good cause for bragging. "We could build a wall around Texas and live high on the hog and sustain ourselves. We could eat high on the hog on what we produce with no one else supplying us with anything; we could cloth ourselves and we could house ourselves," he said pointing to the growing importance of the forestry of pine trees for lumber and pulpwood.

In his audience needed further convincing, Cox pointed to the meal just consumed citing the abundance of food with this state and this nation is blessed. "Take bread-last year we (Texas) produced 54 million bushels of wheat; this fruit salad-Texas produced 13 million boxes of citrus fruits last year; this in Texas." And, he added: "One modern day broiler producer can produce enough chickens to feed a city of 60,000 people."

The importance of the abundance of food was made more pointed when Cox reported that a study by psychologists has brought out that "we stand just 12 meals away from complete chicken we had today-185 million chickens were produced last year savagery-two days without food and you would steal for it, three days without food and you would riot for it and four days without food and you would kill for it."

"But you and I don't have to worry about that as some countries do," Cox said, "as we have smart farmers who are producing food in abundance for you and me, they always have and I hope they always will," he concluded.

Rotary's Four-Way Test plaques and club sponsored petroleum industry medallions were presented to November Student Rotarans Bruce Oakley from high school and Ronnie Van Winkly from NJC.

Billy Sunday 20th Century Review Topic

"Billy Sunday and His Message" by William T. Ellis was reviewed by Mrs. Guy Love for members of the Twentieth Century Club at the group's Thursday meeting held at Kinsloe House.

Ellis, who worked closely with Billy Sunday during the evangelist's crusades, revealed the Sunday felt that the need of his time was the delivery of a message of simple faith and he felt that he was the man God had chosen for that task.

Billy Sunday was a man, who, like Lincoln showed signs of savor of the soil. During his ministry of about 25 years, he won 300,000 people to belief in Jesus Christ.

Mrs. W.M. Forester will be hostess for the next meeting to be held Thursday at 4p.m. at her home at 1425 Columbia. Mrs. Ruth Yelvington will be the reviewer.

Favorable for Viewing

At intervals of about two years and 50 days, Mars and earth are on the same side of the sun and closest to each other. At such times Mars is most favorably located for telescopic observation.

Only asteroid that ever becomes bright enough to be seen with the naked eye is Vesta, the third largest in size.

Farmers Should Take Look At Income Tax Management

By GENE SEARS
County Agricultural Agent
EDWARD F. FUGGER
County Livestock Specialist
DOUGLAS F. Preslev
Asst. County Agricultural Agent

INCOME TAX MANAGEMENT: It's not too early for farmers and ranchers to take a look at their tax situation and make certain management decisions before the end of the year.

Make an estimate of income and expenses to get an idea of your income tax liability.

If your taxable income for the year is above that anticipated for next year, you may want to delay any additional sales until 1972. Also, consider buying supplies such as fertilizer, feed and chemicals for next year to reduce this year's income.

Machinery purchases will also cut your income by a substantial margin, and you can benefit from first-year depreciations and possibly investment credit if it becomes effective once again.

Other items which could reduce your 1971 income tax are income averaging and advance payment of interest loans. According to the economist, income averaging is a tool for leveling income over a five-year period. To qualify for income averaging this year, your income must be 20 percent above the 1967-70 average and at least $3,000.

If, on the other hand, your income is down for 1971, then you will want to delay some deductions until next year. This can be done by delaying all possible purchases and payments until after January 1. This practice is especially sound if you expect a higher income in 1972.

A word of caution regarding decisions to alter your tax situation for this year. Don't make sales or purchases simply to juggle income expense in order to save a few tax dollars. Be sure all decisions are sound from a profit management standpoint.

CROP AND LIVESTOCK SURVEY: Some 65,000 Texas farmers and ranchers, including a representative number from Navarro County, will be involved in the 1971 state crop and livestock survey.

Questionnares for the annual survey will be mailed to selected producers by the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service during the last half of November and December. These should be completed and returned as soon as possible.

The questionnaires will be used by the state statistician in making an accurate estimate of the crop and livestock situation in Texas. This information has many uses, both in and out of the state, and is used here in the County in connection with program building activities and in conducting educational programs in agriculture.

Each producer plays an important role in this state's agricultural industry. In order for the industry to continue to move forward, accurate agricultural estimates are essential. So each producer receiving a questionnaire is urged to complete and return it immediately.

County statistics for 1970 are now available on livestock, poultry, dairy, field crops, small grains, cotton, vegetables, fruits and pecans, and cash receipts of Texas farm commodities. Copies of these bulletins are available from the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, Box 70, Austin, Texas 78767.

SOIL AND CROP CONDITION: This past week there has been very little change in the soil moisture. Surface moisture has become depleted; however, we do have adequate moisture about 3 or 4 inches deep.

Young crops which have been planted two or three weeks and those planted more recently are in need of a rain. Older crops are doing good after the good rain wer received a few week ago. Most small grain and ryegrass pastures have been growing and are now being grazed. We would remind cattle men that grazing on these crops should be restricted until the plant is about 6 or 8 inches tall. This helps to insure a good root system and therefore keeps the cattle from pulling the plant up when they begin grazing.

The cotton harvest is continuing but more areas are slowing down and getting near the end of the harvest. The county gins have now ginned about 17,000 bales of cotton. We hope we will be able to complete all the harvest within the next couple of weeks and calculate the average yield per acre. This will determine if all fields have been harvested. We estimate the harvest to be about 90 to 95 per cent complete at this time.

The pink boll worm continues to present problems for the cotton grower. We believe the one item which will allow more carryover of the pink boll worm is the dumping of the trailers at the end of the row and leaving these piles of trash. These piles of trash with bolls and seed cotton should be disposed of in some manner. These piles may be partially burned when dry and then plowed under.

Shredding cotton stalks is being done by most farmers, but too many are failing to go back and rip the plant roots out. This needs to be done; otherwise, the stalk will continue to use plant food and moisture. After ripping the roots out, the field should be plowed so as to turn under all residue from the cotton crop.

FFA Members Selling Fruit

Members of the Corsicana Future Farmers of America chapter are selling "ruby red" grapefruit and Texas oranges this week in conjunction with Texas Food and Fiber Abundance Week and as a winter fund-raising project for the club, according to FFA Sponsor Sonny Jameson.

He said the city has been divided into areas and FFA members will be canvassing door-to-door today through Dec. 1 taking orders for the fruit.

The fruit will be distributed Dec. 20 by the FFA members, and at that time it will be fresh from the trees, according to Jameson.

The fruit is being sold in 40-pound cartons of grapefruit, oranges, or mixed fruit, and the 40-pound box costs $6..

The tree-ripened fruit is described as "finest quality, top grade, from selected Valley groves" and is packed and delivered to the destination within 72 hours from picking.

This is the second year the FFA has sponsored the product, and members report getting many calls from satisfied customers from last year.

Early Corsicana Featured In 'Off the Beaten Trail'

Early Texian times in the area surrounding Corsicana are featured in a new, one-volume Texana edition of the Lone Star State's major stories, "Off The Beaten Trail," just released by Texian Press, publisher Robert E. Davis of Waco said today.

Subject matter of the stories is wide-ranging as is that of the entire 500-page book of Texas lore. There is a feature on early Texas oil exploration and of the first refinery here. Nearby are laid accounts of Confederacy's famed Valverde artillery battery and its last surviving gun at Fairfield, a description of the old Stewards Mill store near that town, an account of first Anglo explorer Philip Nolan who forted for a time near Tehuacana Hills, and another on the Tehuacana area dealing with an Indian ghost.

Written by Hill Country author-historian-columnist Ed Syers, OBT, as it has become popularly known, appeared for many years as a weekly metropolitan feature in most major Texas cities. In book form it proved a consistent best seller through three volumes and seven printings.

Chamber Kicks Off Two-Day Membership Drive

Campaign workers kicked off a two-day "blitz" drive Wednesday to sign up enough new Chamber of Commerce members to attain this year's goal of 501 members.

Membership Chairman Bob Scott revealed six prize awards are up for grabs to the salesmen amassing the most points in the contest to sign up the most members from among 81 prospects who were placed before workers in a worker-selection auction.

The contest deadline for the prizes is Friday's 10 a.m. report session. This year's winner will have his choice of prizes which includes a weekend for two in Hot Springs or New Orleans, two tickets to the Cowboys-Los Angeles Rams game Nov. 25; four tickets to Chapparals pro basketball game, four tickets to the Black Hawks ice hockey game; dinner for four at Clem's and two buckets of Kentucky Fried Chicken.

As further incentive, a worker can become a member of the Ambassadors Club signifying he is a top membership sales by selling six memberships, and they also can vie for possession of the President's Trophy. The year's winner of the President's Trophy is based on the most points earned by a membership campaign worker over the entire year.

Chairman Scott advised the campaigners the Chamber has 469 paid up active members and another 18 who are delinquent in their dues. Extra prize points will be given in the contest for effective payment of delinquent accounts.

President Herb Silverberg reminded the campaign workers the Chamber budget for 1971 was $41,000 but only $37,000 in collections were in sight when the year began, portending a deficit of $4,000. Even if this full amount is not raised, he said his administration was not going to turn over the reins "in the red" to the 1972 officers as the Chamber will operate on a tight budget to stay within whatever total revenue may be secured.

"By the same token we need a budget of $41,000 or even $42,000 and what we are trying to do is to get money for the 1972 Chamber administration," President Silverberg said. He reminded that the Chamber has many programs and projects to promote next year, not the least of which is Corsicana's master plan. Silverberg said it will be largely the Chamber's role to promote the master plan because the city can not spend funds to do so.

Workers were told by President Silverberg to go out seeking minimum business memberships of $60 annually and to emphasize this represented only $5 a month which can be paid monthly, quarterly or semi-annually, or by signing a draft authorizing payments on whatever intervals the enrollee wants.

Dues for an individual's membership on an annual basis is $36.

Co-Campaign Chairman Ned Polk distributed prospect cards to workers who chose which they wanted from the pool of 81 potential members and the 18 delinquent accounts.

Rotary To Hear Ag Specialist

Murray Cox, agriculture specialist for WFAA Radio-TV, will be the program speaker Wednesday when the Corsicana Rotary Club observes Food and Fiber Abundance Week which is being emphasized this week through-out the state.

County Agriculture Agent Gene Sears arranged to program as a part of Rotary's "farm-city" program emphasis.

Ware Seeks Support For Building Code

For the second time in as many months Delma Ware appeared Thursday night before the Navarro County Homebuilders Association for support from Corsicana builders for the new Corsicana building code.

Plumbing and electrical systems were the main topics of the informal discussion between Ware and the twelve members present at the meeting.

Ware stated the code is enforced for the protection of the consumer and when all specifications are met Corsicana home buyers are assured of a high caliber type home for which Corsicana builders known.

Ware asked the association for their encouragement to each builder to furnish the city with a schematic drawing of the electrical system which would help in checking new homes for electrical outlets and their safety.

Moss Maxwell, president of the NCHB, appointed Bill Harrison, James King, and Leonard Dockery to study the code given by Ware and report to the association their recommendations.

Tentative plans for the associations 1972 home show were made with a mid June date set for the open house occasion.

Local Churchmen Attend Meeting Of Presbytery

The Rev. Eugene E. Wood, pastor, and H. C. Thorne, ruling elder, of Westminster Presbyterian Church, were in Sherman Tuesday to attend the final meeting of the Presbytery of Northeast Texas held in the First Presbyterian Church there.

The Northeast Texas Presbytery came into existence Jan. 1, 1958, and will cease to exist Dec. 31, 1971. The new Presbytery will be named "The Presbytery of the Covenant". It will comprise all of the area of Northeast Texas plus 70 churches to the west, including Fort Worth, Waco and Temple.

Dr. Garrison will honorably retired in December. A reception in his honor will be held in the Highland Park Presbyterian Church in Dallas Sunday, Nov. 28, from 7 to 9 p.m.

Foster Parents Plea Made

A plea for local residents to participate in the foster parent program here has brought some results, according to Mrs. Thelma Pryor, social service supervisor with the State Department of Public Welfare office at the Navarro County Courthouse. The response, however, has not filled the needs of the community.

"More homes are needed to give temporary care for children who must be removed from their own home for one reason or another," she said.

Mrs. Pryor urged anyone interested in the program to contact the social service office of the State Department of Public Welfare facility in the courthouse of call 874-3703.

CP Drive Nears $2,000

At the end of a second "extra" week of solicitation, the first organized Cerebral Palsy campaign in Corsicana had reached $1,905.56 Friday. The drive was scheduled for the week of Nov. 2 through 6 with more than 150 men and women workers seeking contributions.

Though no formal goal was set for this initial effort, leaders had hoped from the outset Nov. 2 that the drive would produce $2,000 and with the reports still out from a half dozen campaigners it appears this figure will be attended.

Still to be heard from according to Mrs. James Chapman III, one of three women co-chairmen heading the drive, are three women volunteer workers engaged in the house-to-house canvass and as many men who assumed the responsibility of calling on business firms in the downtown district.

Of the $1,905.56 that had been tabulated Friday morning, an estimated $80 was money that responsive citizens had deposited in CP coin containers placed in most Corsicana businesses.

The fledging organization recently organized will next turn its attention to a mass survey of the county seeking to identify and locate cerebral palsied children as a basis for formulating a program of rehabilitation service for and to them through facilities now available in Navarro County.

Miss Gaby Sitton will head the organization for the coming year. Serving with her will be Mrs. W. C. Galloway as president-elect, Mrs. Ralph Scoggins as first vice-president, Mrs. Ferma C. Lee as treasurer, Mrs. David Hawk as historian, and Mrs. James Cerf, parliamentarian.

Members were advised that donations are still coming in from the kitchen tour benefit held in October, and the final total is expected to reach around $750. The money will be applied to the purchase of mamograph x-ray equipment for the hospital.

Plans were announced for the annual Christmas party for staff members and employes of the hospital to be held Dec. 21 from 2 to 4 p.m. in the hospital cafeteria.

Dogs Face Chaps In Opener

Q: Why doesn't the city have all signs and signals correct at, and approaching the intersection of W. 7th and S. 15th St? (A) There is no "left turn" indication on the East approach on the sign over the street, only a "right turn" and "Straight on" indication on the overhead sign; (B) There is no "green arrow" on the turn signal on the light going north on 15th, only the arrow indicating straight through. (Miss M.B.)

A: This inquiry, as almost all others involving traffic controls and regulations in Corsicana has been referred to the city manager and the city engineer. As has been noted numerous times previously in this column new City Engineer Bob Scott is in process of making a survey all over town and this intersection is part of that study. More on that later.

Q: Corsicana's blind corner intersections bug me and one in particular vexes me every morning when I come downtown to work. It is necessary to pull out into the cross street to look beyond a row of shrubbery near the curb to see if any traffic is coming. Whose responsibility is it to keep trees and shrubs pruned back so a driver can see up and down the street? (Mrs. J.C.)

A: City Manager Bob Brockman says, "Let us know where a shrub or tree is blocking view; police will be sent out to request the property owner to trim it back, and if they (owners) don't or won't do it, the City will go out and cut it."

CORSICANA (Spl)—The Navarro Junior College basketball team will launch a 25 game schedule Thursday night by entertaining Angelina College in the Men's Gymnasium. Tip-off time is 7:30 p.m.

Included in the schedule will be three tournament dates for coach Harold Hern's five. Classic dates include the McLennan (Waco) Classic this coming weekend, followed with an appearance in the Angelina (Lufkin) tourney during the Thanksgiving holidays. In mid-January the Bulldogs will also enter the San Jacinto (Pasedena) tournament.

Not only will the Thursday meeting with Angelina be the season opener for the Bulldogs, but a Texas Eastern Conference game as well. The game will also mark Navarro's first appearance as a new member in the always tough TEC.

Hern in his fourth season at the helm of the Bulldogs will have only two returning starters to call upon to lead the Dog scoring attack. Adding depth will be two other lettermen who shared starting roles a year ago.

Terry James and Robert Lewis are the two returning starters expected to carry the scoring load. James, a 6-2 guard from Miami, Fla., is the leading returning high scorer with 642 points for a 19 point average of last season, while Lewis, a 5-10 guard from Oakwood, contributed 440 points for a 13 point per game average last year.

Expected to carry a major portion of the Dog attack will be Curtis Frazier and Horace Mingo. Both are 6-5 products of Miami, Fla. and shared starting roles last season. Frazier leads all lettermen in rebounds with 250 in 31 games played and pitched in 404 points, with Mingo grabbing 196 rebounds in 33 games played and contributing 210 points.

Other lettermen on the roster to try to improve on the 24-9 season a year ago are Jack Oren of Carrolton and John Anthony of Miami, Fla. Oren appeared in 30 games and tallied 59 points, while Anthony played in only 19 games and scored 24 points.

Freshmen seeking a starting berth are Henry Bowie, 6-1 from Corsicana; Kim Wyatt, 6-2 from Corsicana; Frankie Enlow, 6-1 from Allen; John McAdams, 6-2 from Kirbyville; and James Lewis, 5-11 from Oakwood.

Following the season opener Thursday and the weekend classic in Waco, the Bulldogs return home Monday night Nov. 22 in a second TEC game with Grayson County.

Home Games include: Angelina Nov. 18; Grayson Nov. 22; Kilgore Nov. 29; Henderson Dec. 1; Paris Dec. 11; Tyler Dec. 18; Panola Jan. 12; Arlington State Jan 27; Lon Morris Feb. 1; Jacksonville Feb. 15.

Thawing Recommendations

When turkey is frozen solidly, thaw in bag in refrigerator 2 to 3 days —or thaw at room temp. from 6 to 10 hours — finish in refrigerator 12 hrs. — or thaw under cold running water from 2 to 3 hrs. — Do not thaw in warm water. Cooking instructions are written on each turkey — we recommend preheating oven at 325° and cooking 15 to 20 minutes per pound.

Where Will I Find?

Joe Fink seeks the ready assistance of Buddies Checker Mrs. Delores Brandon in just where a particular item he wants is in the store so he can make a quick purchase. Six check-out stands, including an "express line" eliminates long waiting lines for Buddies shoppers.

Mitchellettes

Mrs. Katherine Miller, who heads the shoe department at Mitchell's Department Store,, checks specials in a recent advertisement, while Mrs. Juanita Wafer mans the cash register. Mitchell employes are assigned to regular duties but each is willing to be of service in any area of the Golden Circle Shopping Center store.

Tasty Bakery Special

Miss Vickie Murray holds up a rum cake from the bakery department of Buddies Supermarket which is offered from the table of "specials". This new department is quite a hit with store shoppers.

Ladies Love Lace

Little Miss Jackie Powell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Powell, proves that ladies of all ages love lace, as she examines a piece that Mrs. Ruby Baggett has just cut for her mother. Mitchell's new fabric center carries a wide slection of knitting needs as the shelves in the background reveal.
